PROGRESS OF TARIFF BILL DELAYED BY REPUBLICANS

Opposition Among Senators Has Developed in Unexpected Quarter.

MAY LENGTHEN HOURS

Talk of Adding to Time of Daily Sittings Again Heard—Finance Committee Still Confident

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The tariff bill will continue to receive the undivided attention of the Senate during the present week. Ostensibly the amendments to the different schedules will be before the Senate, but there will doubtless be much general opposition among Republican senators which had not been counted upon, and while the finance committee is still confident that it will be sustained, there is little effort by its members to conceal the fact that they are annoyed over the situation because of the delay, if for no other reason. The general opinion is that in the end the committee will prevail, but every turn in the pathway of discussion, opens up new vistas, so that, apparently, the conclusion is still afar off.

Talk of Longer Hours.

There is again talk of lengthening the hours of the daily sittings, but there is fear that if this course is resorted to, it will have the effect of antagonizing to a still greater degree the opponents of the measure and of thus creating delay rather than expediting the measure.

The great bulk of provisions to which objection has been made are still to be disposed of. The [illegible] schedule will again be considered when the bill is taken up tomorrow. Senator Clay has prepared an exhaustive speech in opposition to the sugar schedule, but it is doubtful whether that schedule will be reached during the present week.

Philippine Tariff Bill.

In the House the Philippine tariff bill will be reported tomorrow and there will be an effort to consider it Thursday. If there should be objection on account of absence of a quorum, a recess will be taken until Friday, when the House will proceed with the discussion of the bill. There is little or no opposition to the measure.

Owing to the shape which the debate in the Senate has assumed, most of the prophets of the finance committee are by no means as sanguine of early adjournment as they formerly were, and some senators are placing the date as late as the first of August. It probably will not, however, be later than July 1.

SORE AND STIFF, WESTON STARTS ON 71-MILE WALK

TOPEKA, Kan., May 10.—Promptly at 12.05 o'clock this morning, Edward Payson Weston, so stiff that he was compelled to come down the stairway backward, started on his trip of 71 miles to Junction City, where he expects to spend the night. Weston expects to reach St. Marys in time for early breakfast. A small crowd, composed mostly of policemen and boys, saw him start.

Weston spent practically all his time here sleeping and did not leave his hotel from the time he arrived until he took his departure this morning. He declared he would not depend on the moon for light and carried a lantern. He is following the Union Pacific track.

DEFINITE ACTION ON CHURCH FEDERATION

COMMITTEES NAMED TO PLAN ORGANIZATION.

Churches of Colorado Springs in Systematic Co-operation to Conserve Religious Effort.

Conservation of religious effort in Colorado Springs, in Colorado and throughout the entire western district is the end to be attained by systematic co-operation through church federation, if plans formulated at a meeting in the auditorium of the First Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon are carried out. The attendance comprised 40 representatives from 20 churches, covering 11 denominations in this city, and the meeting was an outgrowth of a conference of church representatives last winter, immediately upon return of H. Alexander Smith as a delegate to sessions of the Church Federal council in Philadelphia in December.

Definite action toward the federation of the churches of Colorado Springs was taken yesterday afternoon when a committee was appointed to review the history of federations in other cities, and at a later meeting to report plans for organization and the reasons for federation. This committee comprises Dr. H. A. Johnston, John Lennox and Charles B. Hall.

Movement Is General.

Another committee was named to communicate with the executive committee of the Federal Council of Churches with a view of promoting federation in the western district of the country with a subsidiary state organization in Colorado. This committee comprises Dr. W. F. Slocum, Irving Howbert, H. H. Seldomridge, T. P. Barber, M. C. Gile and H. A. Smith.

The policy of the federation was outlined by O. F. Gardner, assistant secretary of the executive committee of Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, who is in the city in the interest of the organization.

Benefits of Co-operation.

The Federal council is the result of a growing conviction that systematic co-operation will increase the efficiency of all the churches, and that there is no good reason why it should not be effected. It makes unnecessary the further increase and support of outside organizations for doing work which can be better done by the churches themselves.

Through its facilities for investigating existing conditions and needs, the council will be able to present to the churches in every community the times when and places where they can work together for mutual advantage. It makes possible the voicing of convictions held in common by the churches. One such expression—at its first meeting in Philadelphia—has already done much toward helping churches and workingmen to understand each other. The Federal council means that while union may be a

PLAN OUTLINED FOR BUILDING HIGHWAY

CONVICTS WILL CONSTRUCT PROPOSED ROAD.

Counties Are to Feed Prisoners and Furnish Tools—Work May Start Soon.

As a result of a conference between County Commissioner J. P. Madden of El Paso county and Commissioner J. G. Franzing of Denver county in Denver last Saturday, in which both officials declared themselves in favor of the proposition of Warden Thomas Tynan of the state penitentiary to put convicts at work on the proposed highway between Canon City and Denver, a meeting of good roads advocates and state and county officials will be called shortly to launch the project.

Both commissioners, who express the sentiment of the boards of county commissioners of the two counties, say that it will be many years before the highway is built by other than convict labor because of the great expense.

Counties to Feed Convicts.

Warden Tynan's proposition is to put 200 convicts at work, provided the various counties through which the highway will run will pay for the prisoners' meals and tools. It is understood that this plan meets with general approval of the various county officials interested. Warden Tynan will also supply a number of mules, and predicts that the road will be completed within two years if work is begun in the near future.

This highway was made possible by appropriations of the recent legislature, which were provided for in two bills submitted by the Rocky Mountain Highway association. The late General William J. Palmer was president of this association, and J. A. Hayes of this city is a director, and is also chairman of the local joint good roads committee back of the projected highway.

AERONAUT HOPES TO CROSS ATLANTIC IN A BALLOON

Professor H. H. Clayton Would Travel at Height of Two Miles. Will [illegible] U. S. [illegible].

BOSTON, May 9.—A balloon trip over the Atlantic from Boston to Europe is planned by Professor Henry H. Clayton, who recently resigned as meteorologist at the Blue Hill observatory after 16 years of study of the direction and velocity of wind currents.

Professor Clayton believes he can cross the Atlantic by taking advantage of an upper air, or planetary current, which his experiments have shown flows constantly eastward two miles and more above the earth. He declares he can make the distance of 3,000 miles easily in three or four days.

As a sort of preliminary test of the possibilities of the trip, Professor Clayton is now making plans for an air voyage from San Francisco to the Atlantic coast.

BOTH BOYLE AND WIFE NOW THREATEN SUICIDE

MERCER, Pa., May 9.—Unless present plans are changed, James H. Boyle and his wife, Helen Anna Boyle, the convicted kidnapers, will be sentenced by Judge Williams in the Mercer county court tomorrow for the abduction of "Billy" Whitla.

It is certain, if permitted, Boyle again will attempt to tell a sensational story, implicating a third party in the kidnaping.

Mrs. Boyle asserted tonight she would have nothing to say when sentenced. She added:

"Jimmy has something to say and ought not to be gagged. I will not say anything. Seriously, I want to tell you there is going to be a double suicide. I will not spend much time in the penitentiary. I have made all arrangements and have the means now to depart quietly and quickly. Jimmy will do the same.

"Do you think I am going to the penitentiary for many years? No, sir. When my sentence would expire I would be an old woman, and I cannot endure the thought of it."

TURKISH GOVERNMENT IS AIDING STRICKEN PEOPLE OF ADANA

Provisions and Money Are Being Sent to Destitute Christians of Province

GUILTY WILL BE PUNISHED

New Sultan Will Investigate Atrocities in Asiatic Turkey—Girding on Sword Today

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 9.—Reviewing stands were put up in the principal streets of Stamboul today in preparation for the procession tomorrow for the girding of the sword upon Mehmed V. This ceremony which corresponds to that of coronation will take place in the mosque Ayoub, the single mosque in Constantinople which Christians are allowed to enter or even congregate about the entrance of the courtyard. It will last but a few minutes and no foreign eyes will witness the ancient rite of the spiritual power consigning the temporal power to the sultan.

Relief Work Carried on.

The government is taking hold of the relief work in Adana province with vigor. It was announced today that $150,000 had been sent there. The grand vizier and Ferid Pasha, the minister of the interior, received a deputation of the Armenian clergy and laity yesterday. The delegation was headed by Arscharani, the representative of the patriarchate, who was assured that the government would inquire thoroughly into the Adana massacres and severely punish those guilty of inciting them. The minister said the investigation would be conducted by a military court.

Ferid Pasha told the delegation that eight physicians had been sent from Smyrna to Adana and that several also had gone there from Constantinople. A number of prominent Armenians were here today and submitted to the government the following [illegible]:

Want Murders Punished

First that the murderers of Christians be punished; second, that stolen property be returned and indemnities be paid for property destroyed; third, that the women and girls who were stolen be returned, and also that men and women who were compelled forcibly to adopt Mohammedanism be allowed to resume their original faith; fourth, that the investigation conducted under the chairmanship of the governor general be suspended and that a new investigation of the murders be made by the military commission; fifth, that Christians be permitted to participate in the local police establishment and, sixth, that Armenians be allowed to participate in defraying the cost of erecting a monument to those who have fallen in the cause of liberty.

The agricultural bank has arranged to loan $75,000 without interest to the farmers of Adana province, to aid them in planting new crops.

BEIRUT, May 9.—The special relief committee here, of which F. G. Freever, the American missionary, is treasurer, and the American consul, G. B. Randall, is chairman, has issued an appeal, especially directed to Americans for funds.

The appeal says there is absolute and immediate need of $20,000 to relieve the many demands made for doctors, nurses, medical stores and food for the wounded and destitute thousands in Northern Syria and asks that remittances be cabled to the American Red Cross, care of Ottoman Bank, Beirut.

STRIKE MAY NOT BE CALLED IN FRANCE

GOVERNMENT'S FIRMNESS APPALLS POSTAL EMPLOYES.

Battle Will Likely Be Postponed Until Labor Is Better Organized for Hard Struggle.

PARIS, May 9.—Conditions are favorable for the government in its controversy with the postal employes. It was said today, and it is not likely a strike will be declared for the present. The government's firmness has made a deep impression upon the rank and file and the leaders of the strike movement may conclude to postpone the battle until they are better organized and prepared for what would prove to be a hard struggle.

A meeting called for today by the federal committee was attended by about 1,000 persons, but no great enthusiasm was shown.

A resolution was adopted to go out at the word of command in the fight for the reinstatement of the dismissed employes and for complete reform in the postal service. Delegate McCarthy, representing the English postal employes, promised the financial and moral support of their English colleagues.

The various unions in the Seine department have called a meeting for Wednesday to decide what steps shall be taken to help the postal employes in case of strike, to counterbalance the aid offered to the government by merchants in general.

EXPECT TO FIND POT OF GOLD ON CHURCH SITE

Money for Morgan's Confederate Band Thought to Have Been Buried Near Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, O., May 9.—The excavation for the building of St. Francis church in Dayton, Ky., a suburb, is being watched by many who believe a pot of gold was buried under that site after the raid of General John Hunt Morgan and his band of Confederates near the close of the Civil war.

The property belonged to the late Matthew McArthur, a noted southern sympathizer. There was a subterranean passage leading from the house and it is here, the passage having long since been filled up, that the treasure is supposed to be.

The money was left, it is said, by a Confederate named Caldwell, who had been sent north to pay the troops of General Morgan, then in this vicinity. He stopped at the McArthur residence and his presence being disclosed, he secreted the gold, said to amount to several thousand dollars, and escaped, intending to join General Morgan, who was killed in Tennessee about the same time.

BAD THEATER FIRE

TACOMA, Wash., May 9.—The Star theater, a modern building on Ninth street, was destroyed by fire today. The theater effects, costumes, paraphernalia and scenery, which belonged to Henry Moliac, manager of the Moliac stock company and lessee of the building were lost.

TIPS OF MATCHES KILL BABY GIRL

CHILD EATS POISON AND DIES IN FEW HOURS.

Mother and Physician Unable to Give Relief—Funeral Will Be Held Today.

Mistaking the bright, red tips of matches for candy, while she was playing in the kitchen last Friday afternoon, the baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edwards, of Falcon, filled her mouth with the poison while her mother was not looking and as a result she died in great agony on Saturday afternoon. When the mother realized what had happened she gave the child an emetic while neighbors whom she had called summoned a physician. But all efforts to save the child were unavailing, as the poison had begun its deadly work and it was but a matter of a few hours until the tiny spark of life flickered and went out.

The funeral will be held today from the home in Falcon.

NINE PICNICKERS GO DOWN IN SUSQUEHANNA

Rowboat in Which They Had Started for Outing Capsized in Swift Current.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., May 9.—Six men and a woman and two children were drowned this afternoon in the Susquehanna river, near this city, by the capsizing of a rowboat in which they had started for an outing.

The dead:

THOMAS ANDREWS.
WILLIAM ANDREWS.
THEODORE ANDREWS.
FRANK MARIONOSKY.
ADAM SIRUCKUS.
FRANK GANOFSKY, HIS WIFE AND TWO BOYS, JOHN AND MICHAEL.

The boat drifted into the swift current and began to dip water. The occupants became panicstricken and called for assistance. Before aid could reach them the boat filled with water and sank. None of the occupants could swim and they were swept down the river to their death.

PATTEN READY FOR WORK AFTER REST IN COLORADO

CHICAGO, May 9.—James A. Patten, the central figure of the recent wheat excitement, arrived here today, after taking a short rest on a ranch near Trinidad, Colo.

Mr. Patten, who appeared to be in excellent condition, went directly to his home in Evanston. He had nothing of interest to add to what he had given out in an interview at Kansas City last night. Mr. Patten added he would be at his desk tomorrow morning, as usual.

BIG POWER PROJECTS FOR GRAND VALLEY ANNOUNCED

Western Slope Streams Are to Be Turned to Account by Capitalists of State.

LAND WILL BE IRRIGATED

Large Tracts to Be Supplied With Water—Colorado Springs Men Are Interested.

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Colo., May 9.—With the advent of the Central Colorado Power company and the approaching completion of that company's great power plant at Shoshone in the Grand canon, near this place, western slope residents appear to have awakened to the value of the power running to waste in the western slope streams, and this spring a number of smaller projects are announced, all of which will turn water power to account.

Three of these projects are for the purpose of irrigating lands which lie so far above the river level that irrigation by ditching was impracticable. A fourth will supply light and power to the town of Rifle, formerly a mere shipping point on the railroads, but in late years grown to a town that is an important factor in western slope affairs.

The three irrigation projects are [illegible] in their method. In each a [illegible] ditch, run a short distance, will [illegible] water from the Grand river over turbines, and these will in turn, [illegible] portion of the [illegible] water to the [illegible] lands to be [illegible].

Will Irrigate [illegible]

The [illegible] will irrigate [illegible] [illegible] lying between Antlers and [illegible] Rifle. This land has [illegible] lying absolutely idle for lack of water. Here and there on the land there are a few orchards, [illegible] water from a small reservoir [illegible] by a [illegible] of the farm [illegible] owners, and the results obtained [illegible] that the entire mesa, all of the [illegible], is as fine fruit land as [illegible] in the Grand valley. It will be an [illegible] proposition to water this [illegible], but Colorado Springs capitalists have taken hold of the matter. Their engineers are preparing for the construction of the plant during this spring, and as orchard lands yield big returns the cost will not be a very high tax upon the watered land when returns are taken into consideration. This company will have a lift of 315 feet before the water is turned into the completed ditches through which it goes out over the mesa. This is next to the highest lift on record for pumping or supply irrigating ditches.

The next largest proposition in this line is a pumping plant for the Wilk[illegible] canal, now partly supplied with water out of Rifle creek. This ditch covers all the land along the foot of the Book cliffs, a stretch of fine land which is already giving big returns from sugar beets, but will pay better in orchards.

Will Grow All Kinds of Fruit.

Both these lands and the Antlers district have the advantage of being somewhat higher than the Grand Junction fruit district, and the experience of past years shows that these districts are low enough to grow all kinds of fruit, and yet are so much higher than Grand Junction that the buds do not come until several weeks

THE POWER OF AN IDEA

Its Revolutionizing Influence, Says the Rev. George B. Stewart, at Y. M. C. A. Meeting.

"There is a revolutionizing influence in an idea." This was the central thought of an address given by the Rev George B Stewart of Warrensburg, Mo., at the men's meeting in the Y M C A auditorium yesterday. His subject was "The Power of an Idea."

Mr Stewart said in part:

"Sir John Lubbock, a missionary to the South Sea islanders, had some strange experiences among those uncivilized tribes. But one which he did not soon forget, was when, after he had fed one of the chiefs, he undertook to ask him questions. Within ten minutes the savage was sound asleep. Upon being awakened he gave the missionary somewhat of a mental shock by blurting out, 'Ideas make me so sleepy.' And not alone with the savage is this the case at times.

Influence of an Idea.

"Note if you please the revolutionizing influence of an idea in the world of physical science. The discovery of electricity has worked marvels. Our modern manner of living and thinking has been greatly changed by this discovered idea. For a second analogy take the idea of geology concerning the age of the world. The notion has long lingered in the pale of the church and outside that the world was made by God in a few days. The idea of millenniums, and eons has only gradually made its way, encouraged, of course, by the help of science.

"In the third place see the revolutionizing influence of a great idea in the field of geography uncovering the shape of the world. Galileo and many others were persecuted for contending that the earth was a globe. Only by recanting could Galileo retain his place in the church. To deny the literal interpretation of the Scripture meant ostracism. But the idea held forth until the victory was assured.

Anarchy a False Idea.

"Again, consider chemistry as a science. What a 'bluff' at a science it was in medieval times. It scarcely deserved the title. Many things have worked together to make the laboratory a place of distinct advancement, in search for the basis of true elemental attraction. Perhaps the so-called atomic theory has had as much to do in revolutionizing the science as any of the early [illegible]. This being the case, it is also to be noted that a false idea works to great detriment just as a true idea makes for great betterment." The speaker in this connection referred to anarchy as a false idea.

"The emphasis upon the divine immanence has worked wonders in theology," he said, "when [illegible] it was [illegible] 'dry study and ought to be put upon the shelf.' Theology is attaining in these latter days her true place as 'the queen of sciences.'"

The speaker concluded his remarks by [illegible] out the revolutionizing influence of the great idea in religion. Paul wrote to the Corinthians: "I determined to know nothing among you save Jesus Christ and him crucified." This idea has pursued until the whole world are come under its influence.

MAGAZINES CUT IN ON FIELD OF BOOKS

SALES MATERIALLY LESSENED BY CHEAP PUBLICATIONS.

American Association of Booksellers Face Several Problems in Meeting Today.

By Frederic J. Haskin.

The American Association of Booksellers meets in New York tomorrow in annual convention. There are many matters pertaining to the book trade to which the members will give their careful consideration. One of these is the department store question. Since the department stores went into the book business, they have made serious inroads into the trade of the booksellers, and although many of the stores are coming around to an understanding with the booksellers, there is still much to be desired by the latter. They are very anxious to reach some understanding with the publishers whereby they will be protected from the withering competition of the department stores.

Another thing which will come up for consideration will be the booming of the book business. The magazine, bought at the corner news stand or subscribed for directly is materially curtailing the book business, thousands who used to be good book buyers now contenting themselves with literature served up in the periodical form. How to infuse new life into the book trade will be fully discussed, and the man who will bring them a guaranteed-to-work-or-money-refunded scheme for doing so, will be hailed as the benefactor of the bookseller. A conference was held not long ago between the publishers and the booksellers with reference to these questions, but the results have been withheld from the public.

Many Books Printed Annually.

No one has ever yet succeeded in estimating with even approximate accuracy, the number of books made in the course of a year. It is said that the world's additions to literature aggregate 60,000 books and pamphlets a year. Counting 1,000 copies to each, it would mean 60,000,000 books and pamphlets, but even this may be less than one-third of the actual output. There is another way in which some idea of the output of books in the United States may be arrived at. The census estimates that the wholesale value of the books produced in the United States in the course of a year is $37,000,000. Assuming the average wholesale cost to be in the neighborhood of 30 cents, the result would be close to 100,000,000 books. But since this includes pamphlets and the cheap books, the average price is probably far below 30 cents.

From the invention of the printing press up to the beginning of the sixteenth century, not more than 30,000 books were printed, yet recently many single books have enjoyed sales exceeding the half million mark in one year. Up to 1904 there had appeared in the world 12,500,000 separate works, this including translations and new editions. In the general output of books, Germany leads all the rest of the world, followed by France, Italy, England, the United States and the Netherlands, in the order named. In creative writing, England leads the world, while Germany leads in books for children and works on theology.

Ink Costs Big Sum.

The ink used in book and periodical printing costs more than $2,000,000 a year. Perhaps the total output of printer's ink in the United States amounts to $5,000,000 in value. It is said that the American people use 12,000,000 gallons of writing ink every 12 months, or more than 33,000 gallons a day.

The most remarkable thing about the book trade of the present day is the gain that popular science has been enjoying as compared with fiction and other light reading. The number of new books of such a nature nearly doubled in a single year, comparing 1907 with 1908, and the record is almost as remarkable in the comparison of 1908 with 1909. In the libraries of general circulation it is the popular science works that are being most used. It is said that this is largely due to the effect of the library on public taste. People are coming to feel that truth is indeed stranger than fiction, and are making it their favorite reading. Another circumstance conducive to this change is the new class of scientific writers which has come into existence in late years. Instead of discussing their subjects in that cold, uninteresting and unattractive way that characterized the writers on scientific subjects a generation ago, they have grasped the human interest phase of scientific matters and are able to present it in a way that is palatable to the mind of the reader be he one who reads for recreation or for information. But particularly is young America changing from the yellow back novel and cheap detective story to science.

Authors Get Good Money.

Publishers pay good authors some rather large-sized fortunes for their books, but it is said that the largest single check ever drawn by a publisher in settlement of an account of an author was drawn by Charles Q. Webster payable to Mrs U. S. Grant on account of the royalties received from the sale of the memoirs of her distinguished husband. Having lost practically everything he had in some unfortunate financial alliances, General Grant found himself almost in a dying condition with nothing to leave to his family. With the strong urgings of necessity upon him, he had to work amid great bodily suffering at times to complete the work he had undertaken. But he was as game in literary endeavor as he had been brave and determined upon the battlefield and succeeded in laying the foundation for the comfortable fortune that his family now enjoys. In the one check given to Mrs Grant the amount called for was $200,444.

England Ahead of U. S.

Every wide user of books is impressed with the fact that England is far ahead of the United States in the art of making books. To begin with, the average English book weighs but little more than one-half as much as the American book of the same size. This is due to the superiority of the paper entering into them. In America the paper is mainly of the glazed variety, more than half its weight being made up of clays and other glazing materials. In the second place, the English bindings are better than American bindings of the same class. It is also asserted that the ink used is of a higher grade. It has never been estimated what proportion of the printed books of today will be readable 100 years from now, but in the case of handwriting, ink experts declare that it is doubtful if more than one-fiftieth of one per cent of the ink used in writing today will be visible at the end of 100 years.

There are fashions and fads in the book trade as well as in every other branch of industry. The newest idea is the Who's Who publication. There are now dozens of these, and the organization or profession that has not a Who's Who to represent it, is humble, indeed. There are Who's Whos for the lawyers, the doctors, the preachers, for nearly everybody, and the bookseller finds no inconsiderable demand for them.

A recent suit gave the world an insight into some of the profits of ex-President Roosevelt from his writings. A certain publisher was to supply a well-known booklover with an edition de luxe of Mr. Roosevelt's works. It was to be bound in genuine elephant skin, printed from type and not from plates, and to contain original etchings. What she got did not come up to these specifications in any particular. She sued the publisher, and in the hearing of the case it was brought out that he had sold four limited editions of Roosevelt's works—1,226 sets in all—and had realized $[illegible] for them, of which Mr. Roosevelt's share was $185.66.

The Bookworm.

One of the greatest enemies of books is the bookworm. There are a number of varieties, in which the human kind is not now included. They attack the books in different ways. Some of them go through the inside of a book as a [illegible] goes through a vegetable garden. Others eat the paste in the binding. Sometimes libraries freeze them by putting the books in cold storage for awhile. Others heat the books to 150 degrees Fahrenheit, at which temperature no worm that has a taste for things literary can survive. Germany has now come along with a filler for a long-felt want with a machine which it is claimed will shake the pests to death without the slightest injury to the books.

There is no fad that has a firmer hold on its votary than book collecting has on the bibliophile. One of them stated recently that he would rather spend an evening at a book auction than with the President of the United States or the King of England. At a recent auction in New York, a copy of the first edition of Izaak Walton's "Compleat Angler," published in London in 1653, brought $3,150. At this sale there were no less than 137 different editions of the "Compleat Angler" represented. The rare volume, made so because there are so few in existence, or because it was once owned by some famous personage, is always in demand, and book-lovers still keep the scent for a chance to bid on some of them at public auction.

The Author's Knight.

The whole publishing world is on the lookout for the new author. Too often in past generations has the great literary light had to go from pillar to post in quest of a publisher. Remembering these things, the average publisher is given to hospitality toward authors, in the hope that he may entertain an angel unawares. He is always watching out for the opportunity to "discover" a new literary star of the first magnitude. Motley's experience with his 'Dutch Republic' shows what may happen to a publisher. In all London he was not able to find a publisher to bring out his book. Then he published it at his own expense, a thing few authors can do and it became very popular. Afterward he enjoyed that delectable experience of having the first publisher who had turned him down, come and beg him for all he would write.

Publishers everywhere takes a hopeful view of the future, and that means prosperity—for the books there is no making of books there is indeed no end and the world is buying more of them with each passing year. The decline of illiteracy, the awakening intellectually of the people of the rural districts, the pioneering influence of the daily newspaper, which is going to tens of thousands of homes today into which it had never gone a year before—in short, a hundred influences are at work broadening the minds of the people, and it spells new prosperity, new success, and greater fields for the publisher and the bookseller.

BIG POWER PROJECTS FOR GRAND VALLEY

later in the spring, with a consequent lessened danger from late frosts.

A third proposition for irrigating purposes is to be built by J. M. Rulison who will water about 600 acres of farm land lying on a mesa above the Grand river below Rifle.

The Rifle Project

The Rifle project is of much interest to the residents of that town as it means [illegible] light and power for that growing municipality. It is only a few years since Rifle was incorporated as a town, but its forward stride since that time has been rapid. The plant will be put in by a company 90 per cent of whose capital is supplied by actual residents of the town. It is therefore distinctly a home affair. Power will be taken from Rifle falls on Rifle creek, about ten miles out of town. First production will be about 25 horsepower, which is enough for the present needs, but the falls are capable of producing about 3,000 horsepower and the transmission lines will be constructed with a view of carrying the full future production. The construction plans call for the expenditure of about $30,000, and construction is to begin at once in order that the plant will be available next fall.

WU TING FANG MADE PRESIDENT CHINESE SCHOOL

CHICAGO, May 9.—Wu Ting Fang, Chinese minister to the United States has accepted the presidency of the Chinese school of Chicago, according to an announcement made today. The school is one of a series started under the auspices of the imperial Chinese government.

Courses in Chinese literature, domestic science, Chinese and international law and in the customs and habits of the Chinese in their own country will be given.

There are 32 students ranging in age from 6 to 30 already enrolled.

DEFINITE ACTION ON CHURCH FEDERATION

worthy ideal, fellowship in service is immediately practicable.

Practical Results.

Illustrations of the results accomplished by federation are given in the following:

The federated churches of Rhode Island and Massachusetts have decided to avoid "overlapping and overlooking." Some church is becoming responsible for every country square mile or city block.

The federated churches of South Dakota have spoken together and the notorious divorce laws have been changed.

The federated churches of New York state led the demand for the enforcement of the state constitution. They supported Governor Hughes and the antirace-track gambling bills became laws.

The federated churches of Paterson spoke once and the city's billboards became decent.

The federated churches of Los Angeles said "together we will take our invitation out into the highways." A thousand men accepted it.

Foreign mission boards through co-operation have multiplied results, and home mission boards are now campaigning in one company.

The Federal council is the embodiment of this spirit of co-operation and stands for its extension among the churches throughout the length and breadth of the land.

What the Press Agents Say

HARRY BERESFORD TONIGHT.

Who has not whistled the melodious strains and laughed at the subtile humor of "Ermine," the first piece that made the name of Paulton prominent among successful authors? In their latest contribution to the stage in "Who's Your Friend?" Harry and Edward Paulton have given us an American comedy in three acts. At the Shaftbury theater in London, the Majestic in New York and the Studebaker in Chicago, the piece has enjoyed such excellent success that it has been dubbed the "laughing success of two continents." Again, who has not laughed at that "odd comedian," Mr Harry Beresford? His success in "The Wrong Mr. Wright," "The Woman Hater," "The Professor's Love Story" and other comedies, has stamped him as among the few "best" character actors and comedians of America. Harry Beresford in "Who's Your Friend?" has therefore been the joining of an artist with a vehicle that has resulted in the greatest kind of a laughing success. Probably no comedian has ever won such remarkable criticisms as have been given to Mr. Beresford this season from New York to the Pacific coast, and on the coast it has been a veritable triumph. San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland and Seattle, all conceded it to be the greatest comedy success, with "unceasing laughter" that has visited the coast in many seasons. Mr. Beresford's itinerary for an entire month has been upset by the demands of Seattle managers for the attraction to remain a second week, owing to the remarkable business it is drawing there. Local residents who have seen this comedy in Denver speak in the highest praise of Mr. Beresford and the production and patrons of the theater may confidently expect a treat of large proportions when Harry Beresford, in his laughing success of two continents comes to the Opera House tonight.

Prices 50c, 75c, $1.00 and $1.50.

NO SILLY MATINEE GIRL, SAYS JOHN DREW

John Drew declares that the silly, gushing, mash-note-writing matinee girl one reads about in the papers is a myth, but he hastens to add that women are the chief attendants at the theater because they have more time for amusement of that kind. American men, as a rule, are too busy to keep up with the news about the theater and they leave it to the women to decide which plays are the ones to be seen. For that reason it is the play that pleases the women that is going to succeed. "Jack Straw," the new comedy in which Mr Drew has made a great hit in New York and in which he will be seen at the Opera House soon is one of the kind of plays that women dote on. It is bright and clever and it has some good lovemaking scenes in it lovemaking scenes that have a touch of genuine originality in them and every woman would like to be made love to in an original way; besides the ladies in the cast have an opportunity to wear some stunning gowns and as this is one of Charles Frohman's productions every opportunity of this kind is made the most of.

John Drew served his apprenticeship in Shakespeare in the famous old Augustin Daly stock company. Since he became a star, however, he has stuck pretty well to the light modern comedy roles that he does so well—better, in fact, than any other actor on the American stage—and that the public seem to want to see him in. Now, however, he is anxious to try a Shakespearean part again and it isn't at all unlikely that Charles Frohman, his manager, will revive either "Much Ado About Nothing" or "The Taming of the Shrew" for his next season. Meantime in "Jack Straw" Mr. Drew has one of the best light comedy parts he has ever played and he has scored a big hit in it in New York, where he played at the Empire theater for four months. He is on a tour now that will take him to practically every city of any size in the United States and will keep him occupied until late in the summer.

DAN SULLY.

At the Opera House Saturday, Mr. Daniel Sully will appear in his Idaho comedy-drama, "The Matchmaker," which scored tremendous success when presented for the first time a short time ago. Mr. Sully is enjoying a brilliant season with his new play, and the fact that everywhere it has been presented, the managers have insisted on a return engagement, is ample evidence that managerial judgment in this case coincides with public approval. As an example of clean, wholesome, modern American drama, "The Matchmaker" is deserving of the support of all classes of playgoers and it is gratifying to note that Mr Sully is meeting with the success he deserves in his efforts to present the right kind of a play to the right kind of people.

This is Mr. Sully's first visit to this city in several years. He will give two performances of "The Matchmaker" Saturday matinee and night.

LEW DOCKSTADER COMING.

The singing contingent of Lew Dockstader and his company of minstrel entertainers this season is headed by Will Oakland, W. H. Thompson, Master Keegan, Wilson Miller, Edgar Von Roy, George Vail, Herbert Willison, Reese V. Prosser, Joseph Natus and James B. Bradley. The musical numbers are all of great beauty, especially the ballads of the first part. The hit of the show is entitled "When Matilda Sings" and is the subject of a full stage setting. It is heard in the second act.

Neil O'Brien has as his special hit with Lew Dockstader and company of minstrel entertainers this season an act which he calls "The House of Rest" in which he plays the part of superintendent. His troubles with the inmates who are supposed to be suffering with imaginary nervous ailments set the audience in an uproar of merriment nightly and the skit has been spoken of in even higher terms than was his street car sketch of a few years ago.

ALL HEADLINERS—MAJESTIC.

It is rather an unique condition when a theater finds itself with a bill so strong that every feature is what is known in theatrical parlance as a "head-liner." For the benefit of the uninitiated be said that a "headliner" is the particular attraction on the program that usually stands out very prominently from the rest on account of its exceptional comparative superiority. In other words, it is the "star" act, and is generally distinguished by the very big type in which it is advertised.

At the pretty Majestic theater this week they are all star acts. Of course, the Hanlons, from the fact that they have been famous for more than a quarter of a century, will draw a big percentage of the audiences which are sure to fill the popular home of vaudeville all this week. Their pantomimic and farcical absurdity, entitled "Just Phor Phun," is a full half hour of merriment and excitement, and embodies all that was attractive and entertaining in the great spectacular hits, "Fantasma" and "Superba." In which they toured the civilized world. Think of the funniest and smartest pantomime artist you ever saw, and then multiply him by four, and you will get some idea of what awaits you in "Just Phor Phun."

A real novelty, Onetta Egyptian whirlwind dervish dancer, spinning like a top in a cyclone of fire and dazzling robes, is another number on the bill which is bound to create something of a sensation.

Then there is that finished legitimate actor, John W. Heffern, now turned to refined vaudeville, and playing a sketch with a real moral, called "The Grafter." It is an especially strong playlet, and one which always leaves a lasting impression. Mr. Heffern has taken much care, too, in the selection of his supporting company.

Tom Brantford, so-called brass band monologist, is a whole show in himself. He is styled the modern McTavish from the fact that he is, besides being a musical organization in himself, a real Scotch dialectician—a new character in vaudeville.

Dainty Carrie McManus will charm her audiences this week with new melodies and songs. The Majestiscope pictures are the product of the very best film makers and of the latest subjects. It is always a treat to listen to the Majestic orchestra.

Truly it is an "all-star" bill at the popular Majestic this week.

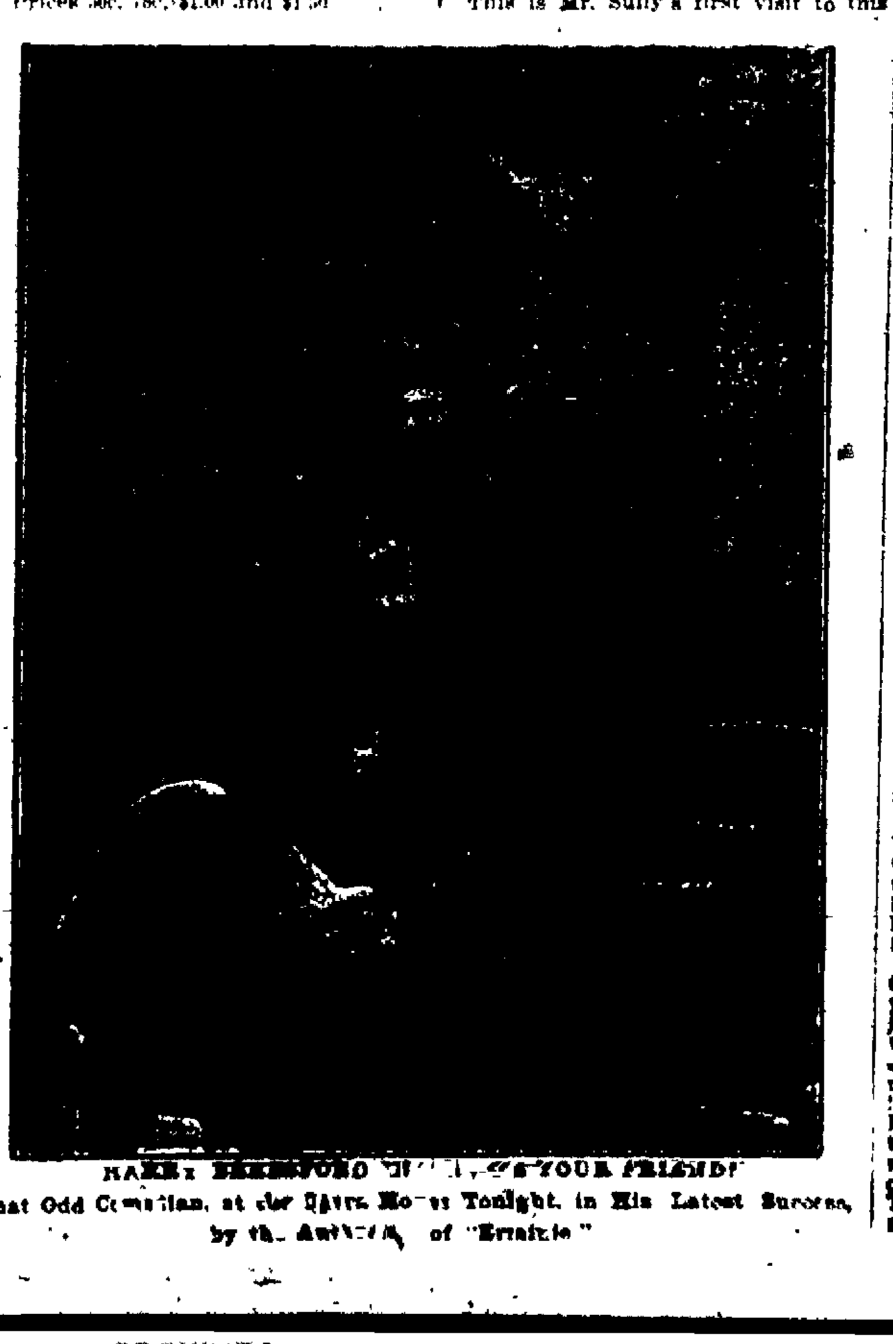

REV. C. F. DOLE TO LECTURE AT BEMIS HALL TODAY

leads most intelligent people to use only medicines of known composition. Therefore it is that Dr. Pierce's medicines, the makers of which print every ingredient entering into them upon the bottle wrappers and attest its correctness under oath, are daily growing in favor. The composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines is open to everybody, Dr. Pierce being desirous of having the search light of investigation turned fully upon his formulæ, being confident that the better the composition of these medicines is known the more will their great curative merits be recognized. Being wholly made of the active medicinal principles extracted from native forest roots, by exact processes original with Dr. Pierce, and without the use of a drop of alcohol, triple-refined and chemically pure glycerine being used instead in extracting and preserving the curative virtues residing in the roots employed, these medicines are entirely free from the objection of doing harm by creating an appetite for either alcoholic beverages or habit-forming drugs. Examine the formula on their bottle wrappers—the same as sworn to by Dr. Pierce, and you will find that his "Golden Medical Discovery," the great, blood-purifier, stomach tonic and bowel regulator—the medicine which, while not recommended to cure consumption in its advanced stages (no medicine will do that) yet does cure all those catarrhal conditions of head and throat, weak stomach, torpid liver and bronchial troubles, weak lungs and hang-on-coughs, which, if neglected or badly treated lead up to and finally terminate in consumption.

Take the "Golden Medical Discovery" in time and it is not likely to disappoint you if only you give it a thorough and fair trial. Don't expect miracles. It won't do supernatural things. You must exercise your patience and persevere in its use for a reasonable length of time to get its full benefits. The ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed have the unqualified endorsement of scores of medical leaders—better than any amount of lay, or non-professional, testimonials. They are not given away to be experimented with but are sold by all dealers in medicines at reasonable prices.

One Man Has Made Labor Sunday National

A Tenement House Boy Who Is Now One of the Most Potent Leaders in Realm of Church and Labor—A Machinist-Preacher's Unique Work—By Practice of Churches, and Request of American Federation of Labor, May 9 Is Observed as Labor Memorial Sunday.—A Notable Trend in Religion

WRAPPED ... spread ... wide ... churches ... of ... May 9 was ... Memorial Sunday, ... now an immigrant boy in ... New York ... ment has ... national leadership ... Christianity ... now developed ... religious occasion widely ... its inception with Rev. ... Stelzle of New York the ... labor expert. He made it ... before the national convention of the American Federation of Labor ...

For some years past the ... day preceding Labor day has been observed by many churches, especially ... the Presbyterian denomination as "Labor Sunday." The widespread favor with which the plan has been received indicates the sensitiveness of the churches to the attitude of workingmen. Admittedly, in its conception, the idea was one of many schemes to draw church and labor closer together. A pronounced change in the state of mind of organized labor toward religion is shown by this action of the Federation of Labor, appointing the second Sunday in May as a day when the problems of labor are called to the attention of the churches.

Especially in the west and middle west is Labor Sunday observed, for there the unions are strong. From all quarters, though, word has come to the church officials whose special field is the workingmen, saying that May 9 will be observed more widely than any previous Labor Sunday. The Presbyterian denomination has issued a special program for use on this occasion. In recognition of appropriate sermons, it is quite common for labor unions to attend church services in a body.

Changing Labor's Mind on Religion.

A remarkable change has come over the mind of organized workingmen of late years with respect to the church. It has been repeatedly said by those who make a special study of the industrial question that the most marked trend of the day in labor circles is the movement toward the church.

Be that as it may, there are at present at work in five of the leading denominations, committees appointed for the purpose of bringing the church closer to all who toil. The general meetings of the denominations nowadays usually devote a special session to the industrial question. Probably the liveliest and most important hours of the great Church Federation convention in Philadelphia were those occupied with this theme. Then it was that the united protestantism of America issued a statement to the workingmen of the land setting forth the sympathy of the church with them and her readiness to serve them. The Protestant Episcopal, Methodist Episcopal, Baptist, Congregational and Presbyterian denominations are now making a systematic effort to carry into effect those resolutions. There is little doubt that, in the last named denomination, the most popular and aggressive of all its organized general forces is the department of church and labor, of which the Rev. Charles Stelzle is the head.

Hi[illegible] Then C[illegible]

The man behind the present extraordinary interest in church and labor is this same Stelzle. His story is a romantic one. He is a child of the New York tenements, of immigrant parents, and he began to work at eight years of age. As newsboy, peddler, tobacco-stripper, and later, apprentice and journeyman mechanic in a machine shop, he ran the gamut of a workingman's life. Converted in a mission church, he himself became active in religious work, for he believed that the best way to help the world of toilers is through the extension of the teachings and example of the Nazareth carpenter. He took a course at the Moody school in Chicago, and later was made pastor of a mission church in St. Louis, being ordained a clergyman without either a college or theological seminary course.

Stelzle still carries his card of membership in a machinists' union. Once, when he was a delegate to the national convention of the American Federation of Labor, he heard the name of the church vigorously hissed. This aroused his indignation, for his experience had made him believe that the church is the workingman's best friend. So he resolved to try to alter this attitude on the part of his fellow workmen.

Within less than a dozen years that same young man was himself addressing the same convention, as an official representative of Christianity, and he had the satisfaction of hearing his plea for the Christian church cheered to the echo. Several times since he has spoken from the platform of the American Federation of Labor, as well as from innumerable local union rostrums. He shares with labor leaders like Gompers and Mitchell the distinction of being one of the most popular speakers before labor assemblies in the land. And no man in America is more widely sought after than he by religious conventions, sociological conferences, Chautauquas, Y. M. C. A. meetings, etc.

Preachers in Labor Meetings.

Labor Memorial Sunday is only one of Stelzle's ideas that has come to be widely adopted. He inaugurated the plan of "Fraternal Delegates," whereby in more than a hundred cities the Ministerial union and the Central Labor union exchange fraternal delegates, a preacher sitting as an honorary member of the labor body, and a labor unionist sitting as a member of the ministers' meeting. The ministers are frequently called chaplains, and it is now common for the national meetings of the various trades union bodies to be opened with prayer.

As the modern leader in any field must be able to speak through the printed page, it is as a writer that Stelzle wields his greatest influence. He provides a weekly syndicate article for 350 labor papers published in this country; thus getting a circulation of millions for his views on the reconciliation of church and labor. This writing is of far greater importance than the books he has issued or his contributions to the religious press.

Under his direction, "shop campaigns" have been held in a number of large cities, as many as 600 of these meetings at the noon hour being conducted within a single week. Similar meetings in workshops are held over the country by the Young Men's Christian associations, which now has an industrial department in connection with its international headquarters, with W. R. Towson of Philadelphia, as secretary of a national campaign that extends from the textile mills of Kensington to the mining camps of Montana.

Labor's Largest Gathering.

What gigantic strides have been taken in co-ordinating the interests of the workingman and the church, so that a Labor Sunday is far more of an appropriate occasion than might at first be supposed, may be seen by the statement that the largest labor meeting ever held in America met under the auspices of the church. Similarly, the largest of all the meetings in the history of the Presbyterian general assembly was this same gathering in Kansas City a year ago, where, under Stelzle's direction, 12,000 men filled the great Convention hall. How comprehensive was the attendance is indicated by the fact that the bartenders union turned out in a body. These great meetings are arranged by the department of church and labor, every year, and Stelzle is planning one for the latter part of this month, in Denver.

All this means much for the church, but it also means much for labor's cause, as the latter's shrewd leaders have been quick to see, in giving it a hearing before the churches of the country. These latter still remain a powerful forum of public sentiment.

THE WORLD of BOOKS

"THE LIGHT OF FOUR CANDLES"

"The Light of Four Candles," by C. F. King. Published by the author, Boston. Price, $1.50.

The author of this book has for several years waged a relentless war against Thomas W. Lawson and in this book has given a graphic history of his fight. He has suppressed nothing whatever not even names. Investors who have been led by Lawson to buy Trinity Copper, Bay State Gas and other stocks that he has promoted, will be interested to read the inside history of the market rigging of these various companies, which the author has here set down in plain English.

"THE PROBLEM OF HAPPY MARRIAGE"

"The Problem of Happy Marriage," by George B. Price. The Chelston Press, publishers, Atlantic City, N. J. Price, $1.

The subject is considered, not from a religious or a sentimental basis but from that of the practical conditions and needs of modern life. The chapters are direct, fearless, forceful. How to choose wisely and how to redeem marital mistakes, are the themes discussed. The book can be read with profit by all young people who are contemplating matrimony and by many married people as well.

"LANIER OF THE CAVALRY"

"Lanier of the Cavalry," by General Charles King. J. B. Lippincott Co., publishers, Philadelphia. Price, $1.25.

General King has written a great many stories of army life and has many devoted readers who will welcome the latest novel from his pen. "Lanier of the Cavalry" is not unlike many of his earlier novels. The hero is a ... and who is suspected, wrongfully, of ... course of various misdeeds, and the story tells of the unraveling of the tangled skein of facts relating to these misdeeds. It is a very readable book, and gives a lively picture of army life in the west as it was 30 years ago.

TAXATION

"The A B C of Taxation," by C. B. Fillebrown. Doubleday, Page & Co., publishers, New York. Price, $1.20 net.

The Retiring president of the Massachusetts Single Tax league, C. B. Fillebrown has put into book form a collection of his numerous papers and addresses in support of the single tax theory, making a volume of more than 200 pages, under the title of "The A B C of Taxation." It treats the subject in four parts—first, the "A B C," then following in order "the Boston object lessons in taxation," "private property in land and other essays and addresses," and finally an appendix. The author says in his preface that 12 years of zealous study and discussion of the subject of taxation have brought him at last to what should have been his starting-point—the recognition that investments in lands are exempt from taxation. The book is one of real importance to students of taxation. It contains a presentation of the single tax doctrine which is in many respects the strongest that has yet been made. Mr. Fillebrown gives the proposal a deeper, broader and firmer grounding than it has before received.

"THE STATUE"

"The Statue," by Eden Phillpotts and Arnold Bennett. Moffat, Yard & Co., publishers, New York. Price, $1.50.

An extraordinary Hebrew financier the morning after he gives a dinner to the prime minister and his other intimate friends holding it in a gigantic statue just erected upon his grounds, is found murdered by the sculptor of the statue. The ... with the efforts of the financier's son and help to find the murderer and then to punish him according to his ideas of justice. Mysteries accumulate as the tale continues instead of being dispersed.

MIND-POWER

"Mind-Power, or the Law of Dynamic Mentation," by William Walker Atkinson. The Progress Co., publishers, Chicago. Price, $2.

This book embodies the essence of years of thought, study and experiment on the part of the author, whose original research, discoveries and writings along these lines have given him his extensive reputation as an authority. A portion of its material was used in the author's two previous works, "Mental Magic" and "Mental Fascination," which are now out of print and will be superseded by this newer and more complete work. This foundation material has been edited, added to, changed, improved and corrected, in accordance with the author's increasing experience and knowledge of the subject, bringing it up to date.

"LEONORE STUBBS"

"Lednore Stubbs," L. B. Walford. Longmans, Green & Co., publishers, New York. Price, $1.50.

A young widow, returning penniless to her father's house, on account of her husband's insolvency, discovered after his death, is compelled by her father to conceal her poverty, and is consequently besieged by all the ineligible youths of the county. In the end, much to her father's discomfiture, she marries a rich man whom he had chosen for another daughter. The father is a delightful specimen of the British martinet in retirement, ruling his family as if it were a regiment.

"THE SUNNY SIDE OF THE HILL"

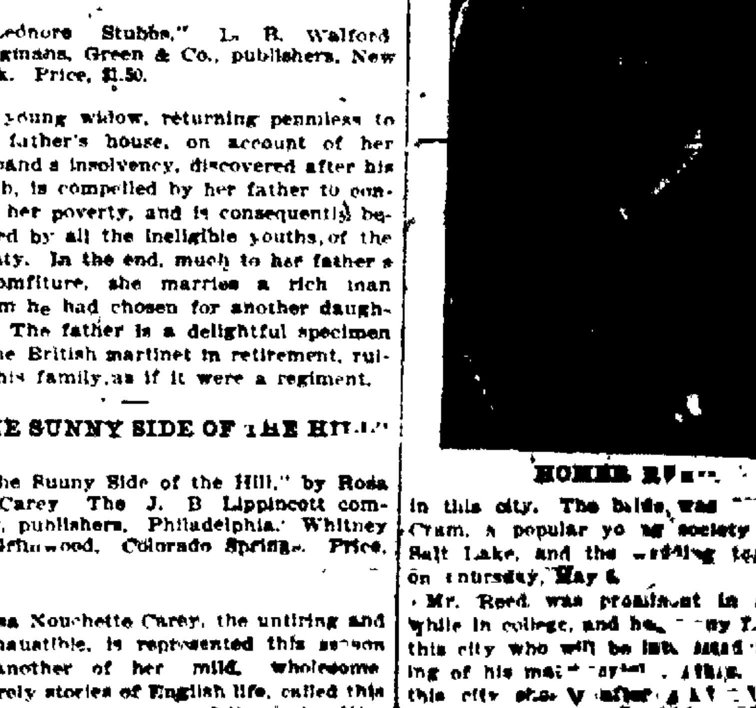

"The Sunny Side of the Hill," by Rosa N. Carey. The J. B. Lippincott company, publishers, Philadelphia. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price, $1.50.

Rosa Nouchette Carey, the untiring and inexhaustible, is represented this season by another of her mild, wholesome leisurely stories of English life, called this time, The Sunny Side of the Hill. Miss Carey's characters always belong to that class whose domestic life, as a recent writer cleverly remarks, "provides ... of definite and traditional ... that we have a sort of 'literary acquaintance' with them all before they appear and, once they are all ... subbed we ... predict to a ... just how they will pair off, and the ... of the ... which are ... to interrupt the course of true love. Nevertheless, they are ... of ... are, in fact, the ideal of readers who ... play are out of what they are invariably pleased to ... "a sweet story."

THE WATER SYSTEM AND THE CHARTER.

ONE of the most important reasons why Colorado Springs should adopt the proposed Charter is the provision therein made for efficient administration of the city water system. Colorado Springs has been building up its water system almost since the town was founded in 1871, but the system is by no means complete. If properly managed it is big enough for present needs, but if the city is to grow the water system must also grow. Our situation is different from that of a city located on a large stream or lake, where an increase of the water supply is merely a matter of increasing pumping facilities. Securing more water for our domestic needs means the acquisition of more land in the mountains, more water rights, and the building of more reservoirs.

This is a matter that requires the exercise of the keenest foresight, business judgment and engineering skill and can not be done hastily. It involves the expenditure of a great deal of money, and if a blunder is made or graft perpetrated the effects are serious and far reaching. An instance of this is shown in the city's experience with the building of a reservoir in the Seven Lakes district, where fraudulent work on a dam has rendered useless the largest reservoir in the system. This one piece of dishonesty and incompetency has already cost the taxpayers about $125,000, and almost as much more must be expended before the reservoir can be made serviceable.

GREAT SUM WASTED. The water system is bonded for about $1,600,000, which represents an expenditure almost twice as great as it would have been if all work had been done honestly and properly and the rights and property had been acquired at an earlier date, before they fell into the hands of speculators who took advantage of the city's need. Already we are close to our bonding limit, but extensions and improvements are imperatively needed in order to provide for the city's future growth. Thus it is apparent that the management of the water system in the future is to be an even more serious problem than in the past, for the men who are to direct its affairs in the next ten years must not only find ways to take care of the bond issues as they fall due, but must devise methods of further improving the property.

One thing is clear: the present method of handling the water system is a total failure, and to continue it would be to invite certain disaster. If the muddle is to be straightened out there must be more honesty and business ability associated with the water system and less graft, incompetency and political jobbery. The corporation influence which has made the water system a thing for private profit must be eliminated. The Charter provides a way.

Under the commission form of government there is created a Department of Water and Waterworks, of which the Mayor is made sole head. He is to have the power of appointing all employes, and may secure the services of hydraulic engineers, counsel, etc. The Water Department is to be administered as a separate entity and its revenues are to be kept apart from other city funds. Thorough investigation is to be made of available reservoir sites and sources of supply for the further enlargement of the water system, and accurate measurements are to be made and records kept so that the authorities will know at all times the exact condition of the water system—information which under present methods is unobtainable.

BONDS MUST BE REFUNDED. Of no less importance are the Charter provisions for the financial administration of the water system. Most of the bond issues were made within a period of a very few years, so when the payments begin to fall due they will come all together. At least a part of the bonds must be refunded, for it is out of the question to attempt to raise so large a sum by taxation. Moreover, it is only fair to the present generation of taxpayers that this should be done, for the water system was not built merely for those of us who are living here today, but for successive generations as well, and it is right that those who come after us should pay a part of the cost.

The Charter provides that the Council shall make an issue of fifty-year refunding bonds, bearing four percent interest, both interest and sinking fund payments to be chargeable primarily upon the revenues of the Water Department. Under the present laws this could not be done, for the statutes do not authorize bond issues chargeable primarily upon the revenues of any property owned by the city.

Colorado Springs has neglected its water system shamefully, and it is now paying the price. Isn't it time to make a change by adopting a Charter which will insure a maximum of efficiency at a minimum of cost?

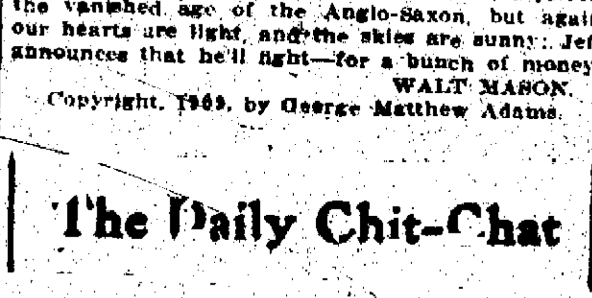

THE NEXT DRY FARMING CONGRESS

NEXT October the fourth annual Dry Farming Congress is to be held at Billings, Montana, and as a side issue there is to be an international exhibit of dry farming products. Seventeen states and five foreign countries have agreed to send delegates to the Congress, and the ... Dakota and ... territories, two Canadian provinces, Mexico and Russia will send exhibits.

It is estimated that in our Western states and territories a total of 200,000,000 acres of arable land awaits development by dry farming methods. Texas alone has 25,000,000 acres; Montana, Colorado and Wyoming, 50,000,000 acres, while New Mexico, Arizona, Oklahoma, Utah and Idaho have 60,000,000. Within a few years—perhaps not more than a decade—all of the water available for irrigation in the West will be utilized, and for every acre irrigated there will be fifty acres of dry farm land which, if developed at all, must be developed without irrigation. Nearly all of it is good land; as good as the irrigated land which now sells at one hundred dollars and upward an acre, but it is either too high or too remote from the streams to be watered. Of course, even the best dry farming method can not make it as productive as good irrigated land, but nevertheless it can be made to produce profitably and there is no doubt that in another generation it will support a large population.

CERTAIN TO INCREASE IN VALUE. Enthusiasts declare that the non-irrigable land can be made to yield crops averaging fifty per cent of the quantity reaped under irrigation, but this claim does not appear to be justified. However this may be, there is good reason to believe that dry land which sold a few years ago, and even now is selling at from fifty cents to a dollar and fifty cents an acre will be worth ten or twelve dollars an acre in another ten years. Immigration to the West will continue so long as there is cheap land to be had, and the success already attained under the most approved methods of dry farming indicate that this is to be the agency through which desert lands will be converted into productive fields.

The object of the dry farming congress is to teach the farmers how to conserve moisture by intelligent cultivation, educate them in soil culture and seed selection and guide inexperienced settlers in methods that will bring them their share of the harvest profits. If it succeeds even partially in attaining this end it will have accomplished a great work, both in hastening the development of the West and in helping to make new homes for thousands of settlers.

WHY NOT GET OUT AND SEE?

RUSSIAN MILITARY LAW.

From the Boston Transcript.

Russian admirals and generals sentenced to death for being defeated are being released from the imprisonment to which the sentences were commuted. Heavy penalties for failing are usually indicative of an inferior service, one that goes into battle doubtful of itself. The codes of the great conquering nations have usually discriminated between errors of judgment and crimes.

HEALING SCARS.

From the Chicago ...

The Fourth Ohio Volunteer cavalry has voted to return to their original owners some Confederate battle flags captured at Selma, Ala., early in 1865. Representatives of the regiment will go from Cincinnati to Selma, and on May 14 will place the stained relics of a civil war in the hands of surviving members of the opposing army.

The decision to give the flags back has been hailed with satisfaction by many prominent men once connected with the Union army. The courteous action of former Confederates a year ago in restoring to Ohio regiments flags that had been held in the south for forty-five years added its impetus to the final determination of the Ohio regiment in the instance mentioned.

A quarter of a century ago in Ohio a proposition to return certain flags long held as trophies of war excited great agitation. "No rebel flags will be returned while I am governor" was a declaration that was attended by tremendous applause whenever it was quoted on the platform, and that was a vote winner before the people of the state.

The return of a flag is an incident of marked significance. A mere episode to thousands of this generation, to the old soldier it tells its own remarkable story of a nation's healing scars.

WHEAT.

From the New York Tribune.

The corner in wheat inevitably starts an agitation to make corners illegal. The bakers of Pittsburg appeal to Secretary Knox. Members of Congress are being overwhelmed with letters and telegrams, and the dispatches represent them as in a mood to take some action, if only the House were organized for any other business than tariff making. Probably it is better so. It will be wiser to wait and see if this corner does not go the way of its predecessors.

Either Mr. Patten, the Chicago speculator, is right or he is wrong in his estimate that the supply of wheat is lower than it was supposed to be. If he is right, then the price of wheat will stay up, but it will not be Mr. Patten, but actual scarcity, that has put it and kept it up. All that his movement will have done will be to start the rise in price a little earlier than it would otherwise have come, and so to equalize supply and demand over the period for which present wheat must last. If he is wrong, then the price must come down of itself again to a lower point than it would otherwise have reached because of the extent to which he has reduced consumption by forcing the price upward temporarily. Attempts to forestall the supply of a foodstuff have always regulated themselves because the task is too great for the resources of one man or one group of speculators.

THE SPLIT INFINITIVE.

From the Chicago Record-Herald.

The withering contempt that is expressed for the split infinitive and those who use it has brought out defenders of the usage who are in good fighting trim and ready for any odds. We have referred to an elaborate study of the subject that was made some years ago by one of these militant persons, and we noticed recently in a letter to the New York Sun which repeated some of the illustrations and added others to them. The author quotes the Academy to the effect that Byron was the father of the split infinitive and then calls up his reserves and shows that there were numerous other fathers who preceded Byron by many years. He says that he traced the poor outcast to William Shakespeare and Massinger, and adds that Professor Lounsbury has found examples of the usage in Wyclif, Donne, Sir Thomas Browne, De Foe, Samuel Johnson, Burke, Lamb, Macaulay, Ruskin and Herbert Spencer. The list of authorities includes also Burns, Coleridge, Matthew Arnold, Browning, Motley, Lowell and Holmes. This should dispose of the idea that the split infinitive is a barbarous modern innovation, and, though the grammarians are hostile for the most part, one of them is appealed to who says: "It is true that the adverb is in general more elegantly placed before the verb than after it, but the latter position may sometimes contribute perspicuity, which is more essential than elegance."

Having thus marshaled his forces this doughty champion declares that the split infinitive, instead of being an outrage on the English language, is a natural arrangement of words to forcefully express thought, and that is probably the reason why there is a tendency to use it in spite of admonitions and sweeping condemnation. "To forcefully express thought" is itself a very good example of what is meant as well as a perfectly clear expression of the writer's idea. And the reference to Professor Lounsbury reminds us of his many learned and pleasing essays which prove that English-speaking peoples have been quite as liberal in their language as they have been in their laws and institutions.

TAXING SIGNBOARDS.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Senator Heyburn has a little amendment to the tariff bill which he thinks will fill a long-felt want in the national treasury. He proposes to tax all advertising signs 2 cents a square foot per annum. This is partly for revenue and partly in the hope of restoring the scenery to its natural state. We have much sympathy with the idea, though filled with some doubts as to its practicability. Something ought to be done, or most urban people will lose all remembrance of green fields and shady trees. On the whole, we think the signs should go even if taxed out of existence. There is plenty of room to advertise in the newspapers without eating up all of God's good scenery. If this thing goes on at the present rate for a few years we shall move for a subway all the way to New York. Even now the meadows this side of Atlantic City obscure the vision and becloud the mind so that a salt-water bath is necessary even in midwinter to restore the mental equilibrium. Senator Heyburn comes from the wild and wooly West, but he knows what he is talking about. He was born in the suburbs of Philadelphia. More power to him.

Everything comes out all right—sorrows are but bubbles! Now we know that Jeff will fight, gone are all our troubles! Let the blooming octopus make its worst endeavor; let the tariff tinkers fuss on and on forever; let the Balkan war-cloud works keep their wheels a-running; let the garlic-scented Turks do their stunt of gunning; let the British voter croak o'er his country's navy; from the Big and Dusky Smoke, Jeff will knock the gravy! Joy at last has come to keep carnival with reason; too much Johnsing made us weep for a little season; too much Johnsing kept our rage ever fiercer waxin'; we deplored the vanished age of the Anglo-Saxon, but again our hearts are light, and the skies are sunny; Jeff announces that he'll fight—for a bunch of money.

JEFF WILL FIGHT.

The Daily Chit-Chat

Too many women subsist on charity—their husband's to be sure, but charity nevertheless.

Many a woman does the work of housekeeper, cook and nursery maid and for all that gets no regular allowance, but must ask for every cent she needs for herself as if she were craving a gift from her lord and not her right.

Men are continually making foolish jokes about the average woman's ignorance of money matters and yet as a rule they themselves are the culprits.

Men who are business-like in every other thing are unbusiness-like in their financial relations with their wives. Not one man in a hundred does what every man should do, and that is, give his wife a fixed sum for household and personal expenses.

It would be for their financial advantage to do this, for nothing teaches the care of money so much as having a fixed sum to expend.

Women are good bargainers when they hold the purse strings of the household budget and do the family buying. If they simply order haphazardly on a charge account which they do not personally pay, they will be far less apt to be economical.

The man who gives his wife a fixed sum of money weekly for the household expenses and lets her disburse it, will make a better thing out of it financially than the man who lets her do the ordering but himself holds the purse string and pays the bills.

A singularly happy couple that I know, who are both blessed with a sense of justice, arrange their financial holdings on the basis of a percentage of the man's salary.

He holds that the work she does as homemaker entitles her to as large a salary as he can possibly give her and a certain fixed—and very generous—percentage of his salary is regularly turned over to her.

Since their marriage he has had many financial ups and downs, but she has never complained when the percentage was a small sum of money, nor he when it was a large one.

Some men have so poor an opinion of their wives' ability to handle ready money—an ability which they themselves have atrophied—that while they will give them large charge accounts at several shops and foot huge bills, they absolutely refuse to give their wives ready money.

I have known rich women who were positively in a quandary when they needed ready money for charity or any other purpose. It is a well-known fact that many of them get out of their difficulties by buying expensive articles at the shops where they have charge accounts and pawning them.

The loss entailed by this expensive method of getting ready money is a well deserved punishment for the men who treat their wives like dolls instead of women.

TWENTY YEARS OF PROGRESS

Humanity is prone to accept and utilize improved conditions as a matter of course. So soon do they become part and parcel of our everyday lives, that it is not until the many factors which contribute to our comfort are taken into account that we realize our dependence upon them.

Twenty years ago the American railway manager had a just pride in what he had accomplished. A vast territory of productiveness had been provided with facilities. Towns and cities had sprung up, thriving industries had been established, and the future held great promise.

As the country grew and prospered and traffic increased, facilities had improved amazingly, and the public were provided with service so vastly superior to that of earlier years as to excite actual wonder.

A few years ago passenger train equipment had reached a point beyond which there seemed little room for improvement. Roomy, handsomely decorated coaches and chair cars, dining cars in which meals were served equal to those of the finest hotels, buffet-library cars from which passengers might obtain for the asking the latest products of famous authors, magazines and current periodicals, sleeping cars combining every detail tending to the pleasure of the most fastidious, seemed to compass the sum total of travel comfort.

Then came the application of electricity. Each berth in sleeping cars was provided with its comforting individual light. Electric fans were added, insuring a pleasant breeze on the warmest day.

The Rock Island Lines were among the first to bring their fast trains up to the new standard, and its officials were constantly striving for further improvements. It was their aim to supply their trains with every conceivable detail of comfort and convenience.

Plans were drawn for observation library-buffet cars which would not be used for sleeping purposes, but which might be devoted exclusively to comfort. At a tremendous expense, a number of these were constructed and placed in service, and their enthusiastic reception by the public was instantaneous.

The question of ventilation had always proven a vexatious problem. Appreciating the importance of proper sanitary conditions and pure air, the Rock Island management installed a ventilating device which proved so successful in this respect that it is being put into very general use, and gives promise of effectually insuring pure air and an absence of all odors in dining cars, without the discomfort frequently attending efforts to produce the same results under former conditions.

Much progress has been made in other directions, until today such trains as the Rock Island's "Rocky Mountain Limited," on its one-night trip between Chicago and Colorado, and the "Golden State Limited," on its three-day journey between Chicago, St. Louis and California, combines every comfort, convenience and luxury of the well-appointed club with the coziness and refinement of home. There are expert chefs to delight the palate, well-trained waiters to serve skillfully, experienced barbers, valets to press clothing and courteous porters to do one's bidding. Libraries of selected fiction, current magazines and periodicals, stock market reports, telephones—connected at terminals—and separate writing desks for ladies and gentlemen, are details which make the journey itself a real pleasure.

We are certainly in an age of progress. This is evidenced by the initial expenditure of about one million dollars for the most approved steel passenger equipment by the Rock Island, as announced by the Chicago Record-Herald and Tribune of February 11. The cars will be practically indestructible, and will withstand any possible shock to which they might be submitted.

With electric-lighted steel equipment, steel bridges, heavy steel rails on well-ballasted, carefully maintained roadway, and automatic block signals, what is there left?

The steam locomotive may in a few years be supplanted by electric motors, and the airships may take the place of both, but in the meantime the American traveler has at his command such facilities as beggar the wildest flights of the imagination of our grandfathers and at an expense which indicts the proprietors of the old stage coach lines with highway robbery.

Japan's fisheries represent a huge industry. Last year the total value of the catch was estimated at $43,382,188.

Associated Charities Warns Public to Look Out for Unworthy Beggars. Monthly Report Issued.

Following is the report of Agent F. J. Bruno of the Associated Charities for the month of April:

During the month of April there were received at the Associated Charities 101 applications for help, representing 267 persons. The unpleasant weather has made necessary the postponement of many large undertakings calling for unskilled labor, and consequently the number of transients, single men, who applied for help was greater than either last or the previous April.

Financially, the association has gained a little in the last month, as may be seen from the following financial statement:

Unpaid bills, April 1	$906.22
Unpaid bills, April 30		$686.19
April expense	646.27
April income		956.30
Totals	$1,645.49	$1,645.49

This improvement has been due almost entirely by the estate of General Palmer paying a quarterly subscription on the annual amount promised by General Palmer. So long as we have to carry a list of unpaid bills, varying from $1,000 to ..., as we have been doing for over a year, some business houses have to wait two or three months for their money; and that is hardly fair to the business concerns of the city.

The most notable feature of this month has been the number of frauds that have worked the city. No less than a dozen have been reported to this office during the last five weeks. Some young, some old; some sick, some "affective," but all with a plausible story to wheedle money out of the people's pockets. It is a conservative estimate that between 90 and 95 per cent of the unknown beggars are frauds. The need for legitimate charity in this city is so great; the money which each one of these impostors take out of this city could so surely save some life, or give ease to a life inevitably nearing its end, that it becomes one of the most serious questions the charitable public has to face. Send every unknown applicant to us. If he refuses to come, telephone or write us, and we shall tell you all we know. If he is not known here, and has refused to come to the Associated Charities, he is certainly fraudulent.

From the first of April to the coming of cold weather in the fall is the time to expect this class. They may be called transcontinental tramps. This year the Seattle exposition will attract numbers through our city, bound for that point. We can protect you from them, if you wish to use us.

TRIFLES

Inconsidered trifles cause inconsiderable trouble. A rough shirt binding, a saw edged collar, a cravat that knows not its place, irritating underwear, a fancy vest of the wrong shade of red to match the new, hard harrowing hose.

We make it a very important part of our business—the consideration of trifles. If you are particular about some particular part of your dress we show you that we know. Make us prove it.

REMARKABLE CASE IN LOCAL HOSPITAL

MAN HAS EXTREMELY HIGH FEVER AND FAST PULSE.

Although Badly Injured, He Has Been Conscious Ever Since Elevator Accident.

One of the most remarkable cases in local medical annals is that of Harry Wood, who is in St. Francis hospital suffering from injuries received by being crushed under an elevator at the Star and Crescent Creamery company's place of business several days ago. Wood, whose chances for recovery are about 1 to 100, according to the hospital authorities, had a temperature of 104.5 and a pulse of 140 last night. The normal pulse is 72 and the normal temperature is 98, thus showing the patient's high fever.

Last Friday night, however, Wood's temperature actually reached 106.6, and his pulse attained 150 beats per minute. This temperature is rarely attained by an adult without fatal results, and a pulse of 150 has seldom, if ever, been known in this locality.

Condition Is Worse.

Despite these conditions, Wood has been conscious ever since the accident. He was apparently on the road to recovery after his high fever abated last Friday night until a blood clot developed on the left arm yesterday, sending [illegible] -ture up again.

Dr. W. T. Gullha, is the attending physician. Wood lives at 523 South Weber street, and came here from Iowa about six weeks ago, together with his wife and four children. He is a member of the Modern Woodmen of America. He was injured while repairing the elevator and, even if he recovers, he will be disfigured for life as his face is badly crushed.

GAZETTE WILL PROVIDE FLAGS FOR THE FOURTH

Chance for Every Child in Colorado Springs to Get a Handsome American Flag.

"There is no flag the world ever grand, like that which floats in its and Blue."

All the pupils in all the schools of the city have learned this popular American song about the good old American flag, Old Glory. They not only sing it in the schools, but in their homes and many of them prefer it to any other school song because it has the most patriotic spirit. It tells them what and old banner the Stars and Stripes is. It tells them how it flies in the breeze over every foot of this big United States—the land of the free and the home of the brave over the islands that she owns in the Pacific and Atlantic oceans, and is likewise seen on American ships all over the world.

Easy to Get One.

It is possible for every boy and girl in the city to own one of these beautiful red, white and blue flags. It is something worth owning and hundreds of boys and girls in this city and elsewhere will jump at the chance, for the glorious Fourth of July, the birthday of the nation, is almost here and The Gazette has made it very easy for the little people to have flags of their own for that big celebration. All the child needs to do is to turn in one month's subscription for The Gazette before July 3.

The flag that The Gazette is offering to the children is a "beauty" and cost more than the price of one month's subscription (60 cents) to the paper. It is four feet wide and six feet long and made of good material.

Now is the time to get ready for the Fourth of July and have a flag of your own.

ORCHESTRA HERE THIS WEEK

Record-Breaking Crowds Will Hear Concerts at Stratton Park Pavilion Saturday.

Thousands of music lovers in this city are anticipating with deep interest the concerts to be given at Stratton park Saturday afternoon and evening by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, under the auspices of the Colorado Springs Elks, and the prospects are that a record-breaking attendance will be seen at the pavilion. The orchestra is composed of clever musicians, and the concerts will undoubtedly prove unusual treats to the large community of music lovers in this city.

Many requests have been received by the committee in charge of the concerts for the rendition of favorite selections, and several request numbers will be played. Among these will be the Tannhauser overture, which will be the first on the program; the grand march from Pagliacci, the Aria from De Fridschutz, and the march from "The Damnation of Faust."

At the evening concert the request will comprise Kol Nidrei, as arranged by Max Bruch for the cello; the Tschaikowsky Symphony Pathetic, and the march from Tannhauser.

MEMBERSHIP CRUSADE TO CLOSE THIS WEEK

MEMBERS OF COMMITTEE TO RENEW THEIR EFFORTS.

One Hundred and Fifty-three Names Are Yet Needed to Reach the 500 Mark.

With 153 members to be secured before the 500 mark is reached, the membership committee of the Chamber of Commerce will renew efforts this week to bring the campaign which has been in progress for the last two weeks to a close. A meeting of the committee will be held on call of Chairman F. D. Pastorius, this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, to make a further canvass of the situation and decide on the methods to be pursued during the rest of the campaign.

One hundred and ten new names is the result of the campaign thus far. At the beginning of the year the Chamber of Commerce had 227 members, as shown by the annual report. Between January 1 and April 15, 18 new members were secured, through the efforts of the secretary, as an offset to which there were eight withdrawals, due to removal from the city, or other causes. This made a net total of 237 members at the beginning of the campaign, and brings the total to date to 347. The committee has made the 500 mark its aim, and is bending all efforts to reach this point.

Those who joined the Chamber of Commerce from the first of the year until the opening of the campaign are:

Harris A. Appel.
H. F. Avery.
E. B. Beeson.
J. R. Ballard, manager Colorado Mineral Water Co.
O. E. Collins.
John J. Coughlin, Manager The Zoo.
R. L. Chambers.
Dr. E. A. Davis.
H. E. Eldridge, cashier El Paso National bank.
A. H. Horton.
Judge Septimus J. Hanna.
Colorado Springs branch No. 38, National Association of Letter Carriers, W. B. Brice, president.
John E. Lavley, Bruin Inn.
W. H. Michael, 227 East Boulder street.
A. P. Martin & Co.
Dr. J. E. Sawyer.
J. W. Wright.
Zimmerman Supply company.

That Colorado Springs as a place of interest is still holding its own in the New England states, and that it will draw a large number of tourists from that section this summer, is indicated in a letter received yesterday by Secretary Henderson, from A. C. Wentworth, city passenger agent of the Baton & Maine railroad, at Springfield, Mass. In this letter he writes:

"Can you send me a good supply of descriptive matter of your city and the adjoining country? We have quite a demand for literature on your city, and anything you can send me will be judiciously distributed."

Previous requests of this nature have been received from railroad men in Fort Worth, Tex., and from St. Louis, Mo., indicating the widespread interest there is in Colorado Springs, and the general desire to visit the Pikes Peak region, particularly during the coming year, when there will be such a heavy movement of tourist travel westward.

REV. C. B. STEWART CALLED

Asked to Be Permanent Pastor of First Christian Church Probably Will Accept.

A formal call to the Rev. C. B. Stewart of Warrensburg, Mo., to the pastorate of the First Christian Church of this city, was extended by the board of elders and deacons at the close of the service yesterday morning. Mr. Stewart has occupied the pulpit of the church for the last three weeks, and has proved himself an eloquent and earnest speaker. The subject of his sermon yesterday morning was "Fruit Bearers," and his address was heard by a large congregation.

Mr. Stewart has not announced his acceptance of the call, but it is expected that he will not refuse the offer, as he has expressed himself as pleased with Colorado Springs in general and the church in particular.

High Grade Furniture and Furnishings!!!

Every year we exert ourselves to offer our patrons better service, better values and better selections than before. We use every energy to outdo our previous success in supplying our patrons with the best styles and quality at the lowest prices. Any firm can offer the ordinary things, but we undertake to introduce not only the novelties but the exclusive styles that are only found by travel and an extensive acquaintance in the trade. Leading manufacturers, recognizing our efforts and growing business, have season by season, strengthened our position by arranging to confine their lines in this city to our exclusive handling, thus enabling us to under bid all competitors and to quote manufacturer's prices. Among the great manufacturers who lead in their special lines, whose goods are handled by us, are: The Simmons Mfg. Co., Brass Beds, Iron Beds, Bed Springs, etc.; Heywood & Wakefield Co., Rattan Furniture, etc.; Stearns & Foster, greatest values in Mattresses; Lueibert's, Arts and Crafts Furniture; Macey & Co., Unit Bookcases and Cabinets; Ostermoor & Co., famous advertised Mattresses; Berkey & Gay, Furniture of Character; Cadillac Cabinet Co., Popular Desk-Tables; Grand Rapids factories and leading factories. Our warerooms now offer a variety that has never been seen in any store of its kind in this city, and in some respects superior to any Denver store.

This is the mattress that shows you what's inside.

It is the quality of cotton used and the way they are made that give Stearns & Foster Mattresses their perfect comfort and wonderlasting. An exclusive "web process."

MRS. WILLIAMS DIVORCED

Domestic Troubles of Couple Well Known Here Aired in a Denver Court.

A sequel to the wide swath cut in Colorado Springs last fall by Harry S. Williams, prominent in Denver society, clubman, and son of Dr. J. Leon Williams, an eminent London physician, occurred in the district court in Denver last Saturday when Judge Horace N. Hawkins awarded a decree of divorce to his wife, Mildred M. Williams, who is also prominent in Denver social circles, and well known in Colorado Springs. The plaintiff, who alleged cruelty and nonsupport, asked for $100 a month temporary alimony, $250 attorney fees, $100 court costs, and $150 a month permanent alimony.

The couple were married in Denver, September 5, 1907. Shortly after that Williams was out of funds, and collectors for automobile, hotel and other bills began to annoy Mrs. Williams. In short, she claims that Williams never paid any of her expenses.

The husband that was is described in the complaint as being 27 years old, of pleasing address, possessing a fine education and capable of earning $250 a month. But he wouldn't work. He also possessed a nervous temperament and a violent temper. He once threatened to Mrs. Williams' friends that he would kill her on sight.

By the following spring Mrs. Williams claims her husband was drinking and carousing with women while she was out of town, that he began calling her vile names, and when fall arrived he declared he did not love her any more, and was going to leave her. On September 22, 1908, he packed his grip and came to Colorado Springs, and that was the last she saw of him. He wrote her that he was going to England, and never expected to see her again.

Williams went to England, and Mrs. Williams tried to secure service for divorce proceedings on him there, but the English deputy sheriff returned the two guineas' fee and informed her in a copperplate style of handwriting that it was not the duty of an undersheriff in foggy London to mix up in things of that sort.

Williams shortly afterwards came back to the United States, December 28, 1908, Mrs. Williams alleges, and was in Denver, but concealed his identity by representing his name as L. Reese.

Things that are as broad as they are long are always on the square.

The first Sunday trip of the season on the Cog road was a banner one. Over 40 passengers enjoyed the beautiful scenery, among whom was a party of eastern tourists under the direction of the Raymond and Whitcomb company of Boston. Their unanimous verdict of the wonderful scenery and comfortable and courteous way in which they were transported above the clouds is ample proof of the road's popularity.

A representative of one of the largest film houses in the world is expected to take the trip at an early date, making a moving picture of the scenery along the Cog road, which will be shown the world over, and give the people who can not enjoy the trip an opportunity to see this wonderful sight.

"This season promises to be the best in the history of the Cog road," said F. P. Walter, traveling agent for the road, yesterday. "Judging from the number of inquiries received and the number of advance bookings. The business since the road opened has been excellent. Forty tourists made the trip today, and almost as many are booked ahead for several days in advance. The trade from the west is better than last year and will probably continue until the eastern tourists begin to arrive."

Mr. Walter will leave this week for a tour of the west in the interest of the road.

For some days there has been in a glass case on the mantelpiece of Sotheby's, in Wellington street, London, a quill pen such as you can buy for a penny. This particular one, however, brought 1,680 pounds or $8,400. It used to belonged to Charles Dickens and is said to be that which was used at the last when he was writing "Edwin Drood."

A tardy gift

Should possess unusual beauty to justify its late arrival. Dutch Silver will fill this requirement admirably. The quaint designs, executed entirely by hand, give it an attractiveness and charm obtained in no other silver. Our selection at this time embraces some of the handsomest pieces we have ever shown, making it an easy matter to select a gift whose distinctive beauty will arouse the admiration of every observer.

CAKES

If you would consider for a moment the time, trouble and bother of making your cake at home you'll readily appreciate our cake department.

Our cakes can be relied upon as being fresh and made in a cleanly, wholesome manner, and the cost is small in comparison to what it costs you to bake at home. Our output is so large that our stock is turned over day by day, and a stale cake is never to be had.

Quite likely you are a cake customer of ours but anyway, a few suggestions will never be amiss.
